Showdown Nears Between Lewis and U. S.

FDR EXPECTED TO BACK WLB STRIKE ORDERS

Board Presses President To Challenge UMW On Wage Decision

MINERS RESUMING WORK

Chief Executive Seen As Delaying Action Until Most Mines Operate

BULLETIN

WASHINGTON, June 28 — Secretary of Interior Ickes informed the house ways and means committee today he plans to return the bituminous coal mines to private operators as soon as possible, but even now is discussing with the owners a program for "closer supervision" of the mines by the government.

WASHINGTON, June 28 — Thousands of miners in the great Appalachian field returned to the coal pits today, nearing full scale production, and a possible final showdown neared between the government and John L. Lewis' United Mine Workers.

Sometime this week, contingent on the return to work of all the 540,000 soft coal miners, President Roosevelt may act to enforce the War Labor Board order in the prolonged coal wage dispute and direct the UMW to sign a contract with the mine owners.

The WLB, critical of the four months "truce" which ended the third general wartime mine walkout on condition that the government operate the mines, has been pressing Mr. Roosevelt to challenge Lewis' refusal to accept the board dicision and order compliance therewith.

Mr. Roosevelt is believed to have deferred such a move until the mines are back in full operation. This now seems immediately assured.

Sunday mass meetings in scores of coal field communities saw local union leaders and rank and file members endorse a general back-to-work movement. Last week less than half of the UMW membership heeded the UMW policy committee order to terminate the third coal strike.

Mine union locals in West Virginia, Pennsylvania, Ohio, Tennessee and Kentucky agreed again to resume production of coal. In Logan county W. Va., a resolution was adopted for return to work and production of all the coal needed in the war effort.

The miners were critical, however, of the recently enacted anti-strike law and of the WLB. They also assailed the failure of government controls to curb rising living costs.

In the Uniontown, Pa. district, center of the "captive mines" 84 locals voted to return to work,

Hitler's Balkan Allies Reported Seeking Way Out As Invasion Nears

LONDON, June 28 — Adolf Hitler's Balkan allies were reported anxiously seeking a way out of the war today as the Axis press warned that American and Britain were at the point of completing preparations for a thrust into southern Europe.

Rome newspapers said Allied forces in the Near East and in North Africa were about ready to launch an invasion of Europe from the south and said the city of Rome "is ready for eventual massive bombardments." Axis sources in Madrid declared an Allied landing on the Italian mainland was imminent and reported that the Italian people "feel the decisive phase of the war against Italy has started."

Axis satellite nations, according to Istanbul reports reaching the News Chronicle, were becoming "more and more alarmed concerning their future as the hour for the Allied invasion of Europe approaches."

Hungary, Romania Worried

Both Hungary and Romania were said to be trying to effect a rapproachment with the Allied powers. British and Hungarian diplomats conferred Saturday in Lisbon, brought together by Portuguese Premier Dr. Antonio De Oliveria Salazar, according to the Swsis paper Tribune De Lausanne.

Desertions from the Romanian army meanwhile were described as "most serious" by the Chronicle, which said Romanian Premier Ion Antonescu was forced to take "severe measures" to check them. The quarrel between Romania and Hungary over possession of Northern Transylvania was said to have reached the boiling point, with the press of both countries launching bitter new attacks against the governments of their Axis neighbors.

Hun "Strength" Cited

The Naz-controlled Vichy radio meanwhile presented the Allies with its own version of the strength of German anti-invasion forces in Europe. Ninety-six divisions— roughly 1,450,000 men—have been massed from Norway to the Balkans, the broadcast claimed. Vichy listed the following garrisons and their strength: Norway, ten divisions; France, Belgium and Holland, 40 divisions; the French Mediterranena coast, 16 divisions; the Balkans, 15 divvisions; and Italy, 15 German divisions in addition to Italian troops.

While a Hungarian military commentotor today predicted the Allies would strike first against Norway, the Bogota (Columbuia) radio reported that Italian submarines had been ordered to return to port for an Allied invasion of Italy. Those in the Atlantic were ordered to put into German ports and those in the Mediterranean were told to return to their Italian bases, the broadcast said.

The Italian isle of Sicily meanwhile was ordered in a state of siege "to face the imminent danger of invasion," the Daily Mail said in a dispatch from "the Italian frontier." And all along the Black sea coast, German troops were reported to be feverishly fortifying potential landing points.

Normal public services in Sicily were said to have been entirely dislocated. Allied bombing attacks have created such an acute water shortage that the island's 4,000,000 inhabitants will be put on a daily water ration, the Mail said.

French sources meanwhile reported from Ankara tha we---informed Turkish military quarters expect an imminent Allied landing on the island of Crete.

DEATH CLAIMS JOSEPH ARCHER

Former Head Of School At Laurelville Dies At Veterans' Hospital

Joseph L. Archer, a former Laurelville school superintendent and a member of the U. S. navy during World War I, died Sunday at 12:45 a. m. in the U. S. Veterans' hospital, Dayton, where he had been a patient for the last four weeks.

Mr. Archer had been in poor health for several years. In 1939 he underwent an operation for a brain tumor in Chicago. He resigned as Laurelville school head at the end of the 1942 school term, but had continued to liv in that village with his family.

Mr. Archer was active in veterans' circles, serving as commander of Laurelville Post No. 422 of the American Legion several years ago, and being its service officer at the time of his death. He served in coast guard patrol duty in World War I and was overseas with the navy for nine months.

The Laurelville man was a member of the Methodist church, a member of Adelphi lodge No. 527, Free and Accepted Masons; Eastern Star in that village, and was also affiliated with Circleville Royal Arch Masons. He was also a member of the Laurelville nights of Pythias.

He also studied for a master's degree at Ohio State university. Mr. Archer taught school for 22 years in Saltcreek, Hallsville, Cherry Fork, Gibisonville and Laurelville, serving as superintendent in the latter two schools.

THREATENER OF GOVERNOR GETS PRISON TERM

CONNALLY BILL WINS PRAISE OF SOLDIERS

Men Overseas Almost Unanimous In Backing Anti-Strike Law

SHOW HOME INTEREST

Yankees Impressed By Labor Trouble Absence In Britain

LONDON, June 28—American soldiers in the European theatre of operations today appear unanimous in their approval of enaction of the Smith-Connally anti-strike bill over President Roosevelt's veto.

Most of those questioned at random link the strike situation in the United States with the lack of effective price control. They show a deep interest and thorough understanding of problems back home and their thinking is affected considerably by Britain's price control methods and absence of labor troubles.

Among servicemen questioned while on leave in the London area, representing widely scattered sections of the United States, was Capt. Leonard B. Santor of Kansas City, Mo.

Capt. Santor was bombardier of the bomber "fury", which was destroyed, andn is no wa member of the crew of the "Dame Satan", currently grounded after completion of the requisite number of combat missions. This veteran of two raids apiece over Bremen and Kiel, four overSt. Nazaire and five over Lorient holds the Purple Heart, Distinguished Flying Cross and Air Medal with three clusters.

"I disapprove of strikes in time of war," Capt. Santor declared. "However, there are apparently two evils involved rather than that of strikes alone. If America had properly enforced price control, I doubt if anti-strike legislation would be necessary. If prices continue to rise, there will be new demands for wage increases aso —and the right to striek is labor's only weapon. I suggest elimination of the cause instead of the effect.

"But I consider the anti-strike law okay, in view of prevailing conditions."

LaGUARDIA AND HOOVER ATTACK FOOD MUDDLING

NEW YORK, June 28—Former President Herbert Hoover today urged congress to pass the Fulmer bill which would centralize food control—including rationing —in the hands of Cheseter C. Davis, war food administrator.

Mayor F .H. LaGuardia in his weekly radio broadcast also assailed the continuing administration food muddle in Washington as a threat to the war effort both here and abroad.

Hoover pointed out that only a single responsible food administrator can avert inflation in food prices. He added that only a unified control over all phases of the supply and distribution of food wil put an end to waste, profiteering and local famines.

The fromer president said that a food "czar" or an "angel Gabriel" has not been asked for, but that the country wants and needs a food "manager" acting under the President within laws prescribed by congress.

Despite the fact that there are no serious food shortages, Mayor LaGuardia said that the food situation is probably worse now than it ever was before.

G-Men Start Inquiry Into Mysterious Blast Of Ammunition Train

GRAND JUNCTION, Colo., June 28—Trainmen and other witnesses were questioned today by G-men and other investigators as they sought clues linking a possible saboteur ring with the harrowing explosion of an ammunition train within the city limits of Grand Junction.

The city and surrounding areas were peppered as shells flew in all directions from two burning freight cars during a barrage that lasted nearly four hours. Some of the shells flew a mile before exploding.

Eight persons were injured by the shells and shrapnel. Condition of four of the victims was reported as serious. Buildings and pavements were ripped open and property damage was fixed at $50,000.

Value of the ammunition, manufactured for high-powered artillery guns, was kept secret by military authorities.

Besides the G-men, military intelligence officers, city police and special agents of the Denver & Rio Grand Western railroad were conducting investigations.

The railroad officials were particularly interested in reports that a "hot box"—an overheated axle on the train—was responsible for the fire that set off the barrage, which awoke the city from its slumbers early yesterday.

Some railroad officials insisted that the "hot box" theory was "next to impossible." They pointed out that train axles are rigidly serviced and inspected and that "extra special attention is given to munitions trains."

Investigation of the possibility of sabotage was freely admitted by an FBI spokesman, who said:

"We want to determine whether it was merely an accident or whether somebody was responsible. In other words, we are checking up on the possibilities of

ONE MAN'S OPINION

By Walter Kiernan

Well, you certainly have one for the books when you have Claude Pepper voting against the President and Wheeler voting for him.

And when you add Bankhead and Bilbo and Connally and O'Daniel etc., etc., to Pepper you come pretty close to that quotation from Shakespeare which reads, left to right, "et tu brute?"

So, anyway, now we've got a law which is about fifty-fifty good and bad and now that we've got it, what are we going to do with it?

We have a lot of laws on the books which aren't enforced for one reason or another and our special parlay prediction for today is (1) That somebody will be whispered into testing the constitutionality of this law and (2) That there won't be any hurry about giving instructions to enforce it.

The fact that congressional majorities of two-thirds have made it the law of the land won't necessarily get in the way of bending it around corners.

That's happened to a lot of law.

Thought for the day: Stand by for a special broadcast.

NEW YOR, June 28 — Senator William Langer, North Dakota Republican charged today that "three-quarters of a million young fellows of draft age are now holding down swivel chair pobs instead of being in the armed forces where tehy belong."

Langer said the "young fellows holding cinch jobs" are "mostly of rather wealthy parentage and of families of rather great influence." He made his charge at eastern seaboard substitutes conference sponsored by the affiliated postal employes.

"The OPA alone has 2,700 lawyers," Langer said, "while in England they have only about seven attorneys to do the same job."

Eastern Air Raid Warden Accused Of Giving Data To Nazi Intelligence

BULLETIN

NEW YOR, June 28—A German-born Staten island, N. Y. air-raid warden today was held in $50,000 bail for action of the federal grand jury after he admitted that he had supplied the German intelligence with information concerning American troop and convoy movements.

WASHINGTON, June 28—The FBI today announced the arrest of an alleged German spy who had been acting as an air-raid warden at Staten Island, N. Y., on charges of attempting to send information in secret writing to the German intelligense about American troop and convoy movements.

The man seized was Ernest Frederick Lehmitz, a U. S. citizen and employed in a waterfront restaurant frequented by merchant marine men.

Hoover declared that Lehmitz had "written numerous letters to the German intelligence in Europe containing detailed information in secret writing as to shopping conditions in the New York harbor, as well as troop and convoy movements."

Lehmitz, a one-time employee of the German consulate in New York, but later became an American citizen, began his alleged spy activities in January 1942, shortly after Germany declared war on the United States, the FBI said.

"In writing these letters," Hoover declared, "Lehmitz had used numerous fictitious names and addresses in the hope that his identity could not be esablished. However, in spite of these names and addresses, it was known that these letters were all written by the same individual."

Hoover did not reveal how Lehmitz attempted to smuggle the let-

BUILDERS SOON MUST FIND WORK OUTSIDE OF U. S.

CHICAGO, June 28 — War-related construction work has progressed so rapidly in the United States that the industry now must shift a considerable part of its activities overseas, it was declared today by Oscar B. Coblentz of Baltimore, president of the Associated General Contractors of America.

Coblentz, who also is president of the McClean Contracting Company, was in Chicago to attend a meeting of the organization's governing and advisory boards.

"The industry," he said, "has made such a glorious record in driving ahead on war construction that the volume to be completed is rapidly diminishing.

"From now on many men in the industry can and will make their greatest contributions in the construction forces of the army and navy overseas."

CIRO'S SWANK CLUB WRECKED BY $15,000 FIRE

HOLLYWOOD, June 28—Ciro's swank Hollywood night club, was a mass of ruins today.

The building was gutted by the flames and was virtually a total loss. Only the walls remained standing. Marcel Lamaze, one of the club's lessors, estimated the damage at an excess of $150,000.

About the only salvage was the icebox, containing several thousand dollars worth of expensive meat cuts and fowl.

The fire occurred shortly before dawn yesterday, considerably after the club had closed for the night. It apparently started in the bar and was burning fiercely when discovered by two employees who slept on the premises.

WITH THE U. S. ARMY AIR FORCES IN CHINA, June 28—Major General Claire Chennault, commander of the 14th U. S. Air Force, declared today that "we anticipate Japan will receive very heavy blows, if not decisive, within a reasonable time."

By International News Service

The smashing of two more Nazi-held airdromes in Greec and shattering new aerial attacks on the Italian mainland port of Naples today supported fears in Axis countries of an imminent invasion of Europe from the solth.

Heavy bombers of the 9th U. S. Air Force, stationed in the Middle East, attacked the airdrome at Eleusis, 12 miles northwest of Athens and Hassani, both in Graace, while the newest assault on Naples was carried out by British Wellington bombers of Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower's command in North Africa.

Docks and industrial plants were blasted in the Naples raid as Allied bombers turned their attention momentarily from Sicily, whose main ferry terminal at Messina was devastated by three heavy assaults within 36 hours at the close of last week by big bombers of both the North African and Middle East commands.

SIKORSKI RAPS AXIS TALE OF POLISH REVOLT

LONDON, June 28—Axis-inspired reports of rebellion in the ranks of Polish troops in the Middle East were denied by Polish Premier Gen. Wladyslaw Siworski, according to a Reuter's dispatch today from Beirut.

Gen. Sikorski was quoted as aserting that "regrettable events in the camp of the United Nations have not weakened the determination of Poles to smash the foremost enemies of mankind."

This apparent reference to the Russo-Polish diplomatic breach came as London observers speculated on the contents of a note from President Roosevelt reportedly just received by the Polish premier.

The Beirut dispatch said Gen. Sikorski, in a radio broadcast, declared Polish soldiers were anxiuos to avenge "hundreds of Poles bestially murdered in the last four weeks."

HOSTILE SENATE TURNS TOWARD BIG CASH BILLS

Administration's Policies Facing Further Tests After Hard Blows

REVOLT MAY CONTINUE

Question Now Is How Much Congress Mandates Mean To Agencies

WASHINGTON, June 28—Policies of an administration that has already been dealt two staggering blows by congress face even further tests today as the senate resumes action on several big appropriation measures for the 1943-44 fiscal year.

"The question is no longer whether we will appropriate money for this purpose or that purpose but whether the mandates of congress mean anything to the other branches of government," said Sen. George D. Aitsen (D) Vermont.

There are no contested issues in the huge $71,510,438,975 war department bill or the $226,105,758 appropriation for the state, justice, and commerce departments.

But in the appropriations of money for the agriculture department, the labor-federal-security bill and others there is more than a mere difference between house and senate. It is not a question of how much or of how little, but bluntly of "what for?"

Sharp Issues

The issues between Capitol Hill and the White House are most sharply drawn in the labor-federal security bill, the second deficiency measure, the war agencies bill and the agriculture bill.

Hardest battle of all for administration forces is over continuance of the National Youth Administration for which the house cut out all funds except a small sum to achieve complete liquidation.

Sen. Truman (D) Mo., has offered an amendment to give the NYA $47,800,000 and keep it alive for the sole purpose of providing vocational training to aid the war effort, but stripping it of all other functions.

But no matter how thickly coated with sugar the appropriation is, placing an appropriation for NYA in the bill will force it to conference with an antagonistic house. And even before the bill is passed, Sen. Byrd (D) Va., one of the conservatives in the majority side, may raise a point of order against it. He believes the NYA is not authorized by law.

Labor Divided

Also in the labor-federal security bill is a house clause prohibiting the labor board from examining closed shop contracts between management and unions after they have been in effect 90 days or more. The AFL wants to retain this section. The CIO wants it out and the senate appropriations committee has recommended that it be deleted, but Sen. Bridges (R) N. Y., has a compromise amendment.

Next on the list is the war agencies measure containing appropriations for the Office of Price Administration and the Office of War Information, both of which have already been soundly slapped on Capitol Hill.

"The senate probably will restore some of the money for OWI's domestic branch, but it won't very likely restore all that the house took out," said Sen. Nye (R) N. D.

Funds Reduced

The OWI funds were slashed in half to $5,500,000 by the house and Price Administrator Prentiss Brown says that OPA will be hopelessly crippled by a cut of $35,000,000 for his office.

There are many who feel that congress will continue the rebellion it began by over-riding the President's veto of the Connally-Smith anti-strike bill and followed up with votes calling for abandonment of food subsidies and giving War Food Administrator Chester Davis complete control of the food program.

"Now is the time for the congress to take the reins and keep them," asserted Sen. "Cotton Ed" Smith (D) S. C. "Too much power has been thoughtlessly delegated away."

The farm bill too, is fraught with many issues such as continuance of crop insurance, the farm security administration, soil conservation, farm tenancy and parity, but these matters are in conference and probably will be ironed out by this afternoon.

sabotage, as we do in all such cases."

Scores of shells failed to explode after they swished over or through the city. Detonation crews gathered up the unexploded shells and warned all souvenir hunters to return shells found to the army. It was pointed out that the unexploded shells still were "live" and might be set off if jarred.

Army experts were rushed by plane from Denver and Pueblo, Colo., ordnance depots to handle the detonation work.

Investigators said it was a "miracle" that kept the casualty list to a minimum, as virtually every building within eight blocks of the railroad yards suffered a "direct hit." Hundreds of spectators reported they escaped being hit "by inches."

Local authorities found difficulty in herding the crowds of curious, estimated at more than half of the city's official population of 12,500, away from the danger zone.

An emergency alarm awoke the entire city, as the shells started popping from the two freight cars immediately on arrival of the train in the city yards.

Civilian defense officials ordered a "blue" and then a "red" alert. The city's sirens kept up their tremendous roar until the last shell exploded at 5:30 a. m. The alarms, according to the OCD code, were to advise the public to "keep under cover." However, scores of residents rushed into the streets when shells flew into their homes.

One girl, Betty Lee Barber, raced to the porch of her home to join her parents. A few minutes later, a shell landed in the bed she had vacated.

With permission of army authorities, Rex Howell, operator of radio station KFXJ at Grand Junction, started special broadcasts at 3:30 a. m. He advised the public to stay away from the freight yards and adjoining area. Several shells landed near Howell's transmitter as he rushed to start his emergency-broadcasting.

The most seriously injured victim was Charles Downing, 55-year-old fire chief of Grand Junction. A shell burst 30 feet in front of him and knocked him to the ground. He stood up, his right arm shattered. He gave orders to his firemen and then walked two blocks to a hospital, where surgeons were forced to amputate his arm. After a second blood transfusion, Downing was reported in a "fair condition" today.

MISSIMO MAY SKIP LONDON

China's First Lady Said To Be Ready To Decline British Invitation

WASHINGTON, June 28—Mme. Chiang Kai-Shek today is believed to be planning to return to China shortly without visiting Great Britain.

As the four months visit to the United States of China's first lady draws to a close, reports were current in Washington diplomatic circles that she has decided to decline the British government's invitation to go to London.

British Foreign Secretary Anthony Eden told the house of commons sometime ago that an invitation had been extended to the wife of China's generalissimo to visit London following her American trip.

Madame Chiang's reported decision to decline the invitation is considered indicative of the none-too harmonious relations existing between Chinese and British leaders at the present time, especially considering Allied grand strategy.

The Chinese are known to fear that the British government underestimates the importance of the Pacific conflict. Chungking also has felt that British had a good deal to do with persuading the United States to adopt and maintain the Beat-Hitler-First srategy —a policy which has not met with China's full approval.

On the other hand, the British are known to be disappointed at China's failure to recognize what they consider to be the logic of defeating Germany first.

London also knows that China wants Hongkong back after the war, and that has not helped matters.

It has been common knowledge in diplomatic circles that Madame Chiang hoped during her visit to achieve a considerable modification of the Beat-Hitler-First strategy. The Chinese have felt that Britain was the chief opponent of any drastic change in this strategy.

These circumstances have not tended to create a favorable atmosphere for a visit by Madame Chiang to London.

While China's first lady is not thought to have obtained as much modification of Allied grand strategy as she desired, it is believed that her trip to this country has otherwise been marked by considerable achievement.

Diplomatic observers point out she has won wide acclaim in her public appearances throughout the country; made the Americn people and government more conscious of China's need for assistance; obtained assurances of increased aid, and witnessed U. S. relinquishment of the century-old extraterritorial privileges in China. It also is believed that she will take back to Chungking some prospect of a possible Anglo-American drive to recapture Burma in the Fall and open the overland supply route to China.

FLYING TIGER PREDICTS HARD BLOWS AT JAPS

during the night but no bombs were reported dropped.

The Nazi-controlled Paris radio sought to offset captured countries' hopes of early liberation by claiming that invasion armies were awaited by 40 divisions of German troops in Northern France, Belgium and Holland, 15 divisions in Southern France and 15 each in Italy and the Balkans, in addition to defense forces of satellite countries.

Guesses as to where the main blow would fall were many. A Hungarian commentator said the Allies would attack through Norway, Rome was reported to have ordered a state of siege in Sicily, and Turkish authorities were said to expect Allied landings soon on the island of Crete. A radio broadcast from Bogota, Colombia, in South America, said all Italian submarines were called home to meet the invasion threat, those in the Atlantic ordered to German-held ports and those in the Mediterranean summoned to their Italian bases.

Growing Allied air strength in the Southwest Pacific was underlined by an announcement by Gen. Douglas MacArthur's headquarters of sharp, new aerial assaults on the enemy's overland supply routes in northern New Guinea.

Supply concentrations at the Markham and Ramu headwaters in the Salamaua-Lae area went up in smoke yesterday, when they were bombed by large formations of Mitchell medium bombers, while ohter Mitchells bombed the town of Salamaua itself with devastating effect.

At nearby Mubo, where Allied patrols face Jap advance outposts, Havoc attack bombers flying through extremely bad weather machine-gunned and bombed enemy positions near Pimple Hill.

Northwest of New Guinea, heavy bombers pounded the Jap-held town of Saumlaki an Tenimber island. A Jap cargo vessel spotted in the Solomon sea between New Britain and Bougainville island, east of New Guinea, was damaged by two near-misses scored by a single medium bomber which raked the decks of the freighter and an escorting destroyer.

Japanese positions and installations in the Bay of Bengal area in Burma also came in for heavy punishment at the hands of Alllied fliers. British bombers, escorted by fighters, carried out three raids on objectives on Akyab island, off the coast of Burma, duringing which they bombed a village in which Jap troops were quartered and hit a large building in the coastal town of Akyab.

Capture by the Red army of a town on the Kalinin front and the subsequent smashing of six German counter-attacks, during which 400 Nazis were slain, announced today in Moscow, were taken by some observers as heralding the beginning of the expected Russian land drive on the front northwest of Moscow.

This xiew was strengthened by a German communique saying tank-supported Russian troops launched several attacks southwest of Veliki Luki on the same front .The Germans said the attacks were repulsed.

War Manpower Board To Study Problems Of Central Ohio Region

Questions concerning labor supply and demand in the central Ohio area will be discussed later this week when a new Columbus area War Manpower committee meets in the capital city at the call of Wade Hammond, area director for Columbus.

The committee will handle manpower questions for all central Ohio counties, including Pickaway, Franklin, Union, Delaware, Knox, Madison, Licking and Fairfield.

"There is an indication that in the coming months there will be a shortage of labor in the Columbus area unless we fully utilize the local labor supply," Hammond declared Monday. "We want to plan now to have the workers who will be needed late in 1943 and next year. We must plan to use minority groups, women and older men. We must use the handicapped and, in fact, everyone who can work at a job or who can replace a man called into the armed services or who can transfer from less essential industry to war work.

"The committee is assuming a great responsibility, but we are confident it will measure up to all demands,' 'Hammond said.

Persons invited to serve on the area committee include:

LABOR: Robert W. Grerr, business representative motion operators, AFL; Thomas E. Waller, business representative, United Brotherhood of Carpenters and Joiners, AFL; George A. DeNucci, regional director, CIO; Howard N. Porter, district director, United Steel Workers Union, CIO, and Harry F. McGuire, general chairman, Order of Railroad Conductors, all of Columbus.

MANAGEMENT: Frank H. Bonnet, vice president and works manager, Buckeye Steel Castings Co.; H. E. Gregg, personnel manager, Curtiss-Wright Corp.; E. M. Tharp, vice-president, general manager, Ohio Fuel Gas Co.; Ray Speer, director of industrial relations, Columbus Bolt Works Co., and C. E. And that is the opinion also of Sgt. Mark R. Anson of Chicago, former newspaperman now an army correspondent. Sgt. Anson elaborated:

"It seems to me the people back home are making enough money. We are risking our lives for them. When they strike they let us down. I entirely blame the John L. Lewises and other leaders who permit strikes, as well as the government's lack of a definite, workable control of food prices."

American Nabbed As German Spy

ters to the German intelligence in Europe. The allegation that he used secret writing indicated that he had been possibly schooled by the German high command.

It was recalled that when the Germans sent their ill-fated expedition of saboteurs to the United States in June, 1942 all eight of them were in possession of implements for secret writing. Six of the saboteurs later were executed.

Lehmitz apparently was well financed according to Hoover. "Investigation has shown that Lehmitz has received a large sum of money through international banking channels," the FBI director stated. Hoover did not disclose when the exchange of money took place nor who sent it to Lehmitz.

The alleged German spy made every effort to convey the impression, according to Hoover, that he was "an honest and upright American citizen and in order to carry out thi simpression he even became an air-raid warden on Staten Island."

Investigation has shown that he attempted to sell to the United States government an invention for a huge sum of money, Hooover continued, in an effort to indicate "that he desired to do all he could to assist the war effort of the United States."

Hoover would not reveal what kind of an invention that Lehmitz attempted to sell to the United States.

The FBI said that Lehmitz was born in Hamburg, Germany and now lives at Tompkinsville, Staten Island, New York. He came to the United States in 1908 and for a time was employed at the German consulate in New York City unti lthat office was closed at the outbreak of the First World War. He was naturalized a citizen in Richmond county, New York, on Ostober 4, 1924. He is known to have made at least three trips to Germany and it apparently was during those journeys that he made his contacts with the German intelligence. Lehmitz will be arraigned before a U. S. commissioned in Broowlyn during the day.

AUTO USE STAMP SALES LAGGING; DEADLINE NEAR

Circleville motorists were given another warning Monday by postal officials to buy their new 1943-44 automobile use tax stamps not later than Wednesday, or else leave their cars in their garages.

At noon Monday only 1,100 motorists had appeared at the postoffice to buy the $5 stamp. Last year use stamps were bought by 3,600 auto owners in the Circleville area.

assuring a substantial increase in the output of coal needed in the nation's steel industry. The Pittsburgh steel producing area lost more than 20,000 tons or production last week as a result of the mine shutdown.

Eighty-five locals in the West Virginia bituminous fields also approved back-to-work appeals of their leaders.

Meantime, Washington officials waited tensely for the anticipated test of strength with Lewis. With the WLB now legally constituted under the anti-strike legislation, the mine chief might possibly agree to recognize the board's coal decision despite the UMW policy committee's previous stipulation that the mines would work until October 31 on condition that the mines remain under federal control.

However, the WLB has repeatedly insisted that its decision must be enforced and the UMW ordered to ign a new wage agreement embodying the board's terms.

TO: Every American on a Payroll
FROM: The Secretary of the Treasury

SUBJECT: The New Pay-As-You-Go Method of Collecting Your Income Tax

Starting July 1st, both your Income and Victory Tax will be collected by an entirely new and more convenient method.

Under the old system, you were obliged every March 15th to pay either the full tax for the previous year, or a quarter of that amount. Under the new system, you will keep paid up from month to month.

After July 1st, your employer is obliged by the new law to withhold every month a part of your wages and turn the money into the United States Treasury as payment on your Income and Victory Tax.

Of course, the amount that your employer withholds will depend upon your pay and your exemptions. But this is the important point: For most of us, the amount withheld over a year's period will add up to the same that we're paying now—plus or minus a few dollars.

At the end of the year, we may owe the Government a few dollars or the Government may owe us. (See the tables below.)

You may have heard 20% mentioned as the proportion of your wages that will be withheld. Actually, this is incorrect. To figure the amount that will be withheld, take your total wages and subtract your allowance for exemptions and allowance for dependents; 20% of this lesser amount is the total that will be withheld.

Now please remember this: You must claim those exemptions to take advantage of them. Before July 1st, you must file with your employer an Exemption Certificate. If you do not do this, your employer will have no choice but to deduct 20% of your full pay check.

Here is how the new tax collection method will work: Let's say you are a working man earning $3,000 a year; that you are married, and have two children.

First of all, as a married man you are allowed a personal withholding exemption of $1,248, plus an exemption of $312 for each dependent (other than your wife). This makes a total exemption of $1,872 ($1,248 for yourself and wife, plus $624 for your two dependents), which is deducted from the $3,000 you earn before your tax is computed. You are thus paying tax on $1,128, of which your employer will withhold 20%, or $225.60 for the year. Therefore, in your pay envelope, after July 1, you will receive about $4.40 less each week.

In March, 1944, when you ordinarily would be faced with paying taxes on your 1943 income, you will file a return showing how much you have already paid, and how much your total tax actually amounted to. If, by that time, you have already paid more than your actual tax due, you will be given credit for the difference. If you owe more than you have paid, you will pay the difference.

Since this plan starts July 1, many wonder what happens to the tax payments they will already have made by that time—on March 15 and June 15.

For a great majority of people, here is what happens. . . . Your 1942 income tax is "forgiven" (either all, or most of it). The March and June installments which you originally paid on that 1942 income tax are credited, instead, as payments on your 1943 tax. With the result that on July 1st, with the year half gone, you have already paid tax on that half-year's income. In short, you are "paying as you go."

There is one thing more. Since this pay-as-you-go method leaves you just as much of your net income as you had before, you will probably find it possible to at least maintain your present rate of buying War Bonds. Do this by all means!

Taxes alone will not bring to the Treasury nearly enough money to finance the great invasion war that lies ahead. The war needs every cent of your money that does not go for the necessities of life.

DRUGS AND RIOTS

THE Zoot-suit riots did not sound important at first. But they have brought to light a condition which needs attention not only in and around Los Angeles, where most of the offenders seem to have been Mexicans only half-assimilated into American life, but in every city and town in the country.

Every war brings riots of one sort and another. There is a general restlessness and strain in the very air. People of poise and control stand it without much outward show of trouble. They work a little harder, or pray a little more, or maybe just gripe a little extra to let off steam. But they do their daily tasks and go on from there. To people of less discipline the uncertainties and maladjustments of war bring explosions.

One group of little or no balance is that of the drug addicts. The attention of a community, including its police forces, may be distracted by new war duties from the same old round of looking after joints, gambling and drug traffic.

It doesn't do to take the attention from these matters. They are dangerous enough in the best of times, and with war and easy money floating around they become a serious menace. The Zoot-suit crimes sound like those performed by marijuana addicts.

NEW EPIDEMIC

A NEW disease is sweeping the country. In and around New York City, where gasoline is severely rationed, nearly half of the 10,000 drivers who were stopped by inspectors had physicians' certificates that this journey was necessary for reasons of health. Henry Rapaport, chief district rationing officer for the Office of Price Administration, says grimly, "From a medical point of view it seems to be largely a case of week-end fever."

This epidemic recalls the abuse of medical certificates during prohibition. Only now the malingerers, by wasting gasoline, are draining away the lifeblood of the country.

END TO PLEASURE

ITALY in normal times is a land of hard work and much simple pleasure. Under Nazi rule the work is even harder, and the pleasures are abolished.

The latest case of this is the abolition of the strolling guitar players and other street musicians who have been a picturesque feature of the Italian landscape. They are to go, either as a punishment to the Italians for not taking the war seriously enough, or because the Germans look upon such troupes as likely to spread rebellion.

In either case this is one more instance of the blight Mussolini brought upon his country when he teamed up with Hitler.

The WASHINGTON MERRY-GO-ROUND

By DREW PEARSON

TRUMAN TURNS TABLES

WASHINGTON — Several weeks ago this column revealed that the Truman Committee had unearthed a startling situation at the Wright Aeronautical works at Cincinnati where airplane motors, with cracks in their cylinders, were passed by the company. Certain Government inspectors who protested that these cylinders were faulty were transferred, and one inspector was told never to set foot on Wright property again.

It was also revealed that the War Department had investigated the matter and that Lt. Gen. Knudsen, former head of General Motors, reported that the defects were not serious and occurred from time to time in most motor manufacturing.

On the basis of this and other Army findings, the War Department submitted a report to the Truman Committee. It was prepared under the supervision of hard-hitting Col. Bill O'Dwyer, famous Brooklyn prosecutor and candidate for Mayor of New York. O'Dwyer has been made one of the Army Air Corps' chief investigators and has been doing an A1 job.

In this case, however, the Truman Committee did not compliment him. Calling Bill before them, the Senators cross-examined him closely regarding the defective motors manufactured by Wright. They inferred that the Army was trying to save face, and that the forthright New York prosecutor, in deference to his superior officers, was not as forthright as in civilian life.

Senator Ferguson, Republican of Michigan, was the most relentless of all. Himself a Detroit prosecutor, Ferguson grilled O'Dwyer as though he were on the witness stand, finally accused him of issuing a whitewash.

"Just come out in the alley and say that," bristled O'Dwyer.

"I'll take you to lunch and say it," replied Senator Ferguson with a smile, "but I won't come out in the alley."

The meeting ended harmoniously. But the Truman Committee insisted that the Army take back its report and examine the situation again.

WEAKER GASOLINE

Transportation Boss Joseph Eastman is worried over the fact that the public is now getting not only less gasoline but poorer gasolines. He finds that busses and trucks are operating less efficiently as a result of this, plus two other factors — namely, increased loading and decreased maintenance.

Though the public is not generally aware of it, real fact is that the gasoline it buys today is of lower grade than before the war. Previously, the gasoline sold to the public was of approximately the same standard as required by the government—namely, from 72 to 75 octane.

But the Government has now lowered its specifications to 70 octane and this is the quality also being sold the public.

Also, it's not generally realized that the distinction of different grades and makes has practically disappeared. The Government has requested companies to interchange fuel in given localities for economy in transportation. There is no longer any assurance of getting the brand-

Blood Pressure Still a Mystery

By LOGAN CLENDENING, M. D.

PHYSICIANS have been taking the blood pressure regularly in every patient they see for over 40 years. The blood pressure apparatus is now as much a part of a physician's regular equipment which he carries from house to house and uses on all of his patients as the stethoscope.

Dr. Clendening will answer questions of general interest only, and then only through his column.

One would think that by this time everything about blood pressure had been settled. I used to collect literature on blood pressure. I started to put it in a book case in a filing system at my office and then I carried it home and put it in the cellar and it accumulated so that it ran up the walls like an erysipelas and finally reached the attic. And I had made only a partial collection. (P.S. My wife, poor wretch, made me throw it all out.)

Doesn't Recal Much

One would think also that from this accumulation of literature that everything about blood pressure had been written. But it is not so. I doubt whether when even an accomplished practitioner of medicine takes a blood pressure and looks at a result he has the slightest idea how little information he has obtained.

This was brought forcefully to my attention about a year ago when I was trying to find out how many people at a certain age had a blood pressure over and a blood pressure under 150 systolic. I knew perfectly well what the average blood pressure of a man at the age of 50 is — the life insurance companies have told us that—but I did not want the average blood pressure. I wanted to know what the incidence of a blood pressure over 150 is — how many people have it.

I went to the directors of two life insurance companies in my neighborhood and found out not only that they did not know, but that all the literature they had on actuarial tables did not tell them. I then wrote to the medical directors of six life insurance companies in the United States and found that they did not know, but two of them very kindly consented to go over their figures and give me the results. These showed—to stick to one age in order to simplify this discussion—that at the age of 50 about 10 per cent of people had a systolic blood pressure of 150 or over.

This is supposed to be the upper limit of normal, but obviously the life insurance statistics deal with a selected group. A man at the age of 50 does not submit himself to a life insurance examination if he knows he has high blood pressure or if he is being treated for low blood pressure or if he had high blood pressure in the past.

Data Collected

I therefore sent out questionnaires to a number of my professional colleagues and asked them to give me the figures on consecutive patients that they saw in the office and in the hospital. I also collected a number of my own on consecutive unselected patients. The results of this investigation of those who were confessedly sick showed that about 50 per cent of people at the age of 50 had a blood pressure over 150. This would indicate that high blood pressure at the age of 50 was more normal than abnormal because more people had it.

These figures of mine are substantiated by a study just completed which shows that on taking the blood pressures of about 15,000 people over 40 years of age the systolic blood pressure was 150 or over as follows: From age 40 to 50 in 13 per cent; ages 50 to 60 in 30 per cent; ages 60 to 70 in 49 per cent; ages 70 to 79 in 58 per cent and from 80 to 89 in 61 per cent.

This averages pretty well my own findings of the group of insurance cases (in good health) and the group who were under medical care.

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS

M. M.: What is a fistula? What is a fissure? Is there danger of either turning to cancer?

Answer: A fistula is a tract which extends from one opening in the body to another. It is almost always caused by infection and therefore discharges pus and other material. A fissure is nothing more than a longitudinal crack in the skin or mucous membrane. In answer to your third question, I presume you are referring to rectal fissure and rectal fistula in which case I would say there is no danger of either of them turning into cancer.

CHAPTER THIRTY-NINE

THE NEXT day the "national police" of both Mexico and the States had arrived. Four quiet, sharp-eyed men in civilian clothes, they had trickled through Jean's office into Steve's to hold short, tense conferences, and then disappeared again on their mysterious errands around the countryside. She was not asked to take notes at these conferences, and Steve gave her no inkling of what was transpiring in them.

She had no desire to discuss them. Her curiosity was dead. She was conscious only of a dull, apprehensive terror as she watched the federal agents of two countries co-operating in a smooth, confident routine of closing in on their quarry.

Steve understood th. daze through which she was carrying on her work. He was patient with her when he saw her mind go blank in the midst of a dictated sentence, stopping to repeat it casually, slowly for her. He could feel the grinding torture she was enduring each time Manzanares burst in with fresh reports. Out of sheer sympathy, he was beginning to feel a definite relief when Manzanares or one of the FBI men admitted, "No working evidence on the gang around here."

But he could not always shield her. There was the morning of the second day when he had pantomimed through the glass partition for her to bring into the conference the report she was typing. She had brought it, looking pale and remote in her apple-green suit, a small carbon smudge on her high brow where he had seen her press her hand to her aching head.

At sight of her, Manzanares, in the circle of FBI men around Steve, came momentarily from his absorption in the work.

"Did you know," he demanded, "of the fine work the Senorita Marsden has accomplished for us?"

The FBI men didn't. They regarded the embarrassed Jean with friendly admiration as Manzanares launched forth into a glowing and detailed description of her spying activities at the Rancho Casolina.

"And it was the senorita herself," he finished triumphantly, "who saw with her own beautiful eyes the limping man talking to the one undoubtedly Jeffries in the hallway of the hacienda."

At the last words, Jean's eyes focused sharply on Manzanares. "They have found the limping man, then?" she whispered.

Manzanares nodded joyfully. "But, yes, senorita! Only this morning he was recovered by the police in Mexico City. He is one of the gang of Jeffries, and with him was discovered explosives sufficient to destroy another defense factory."

"Oh!"

Steve leaped to the rescue, alarmed at the closed, dull hopelessness settling over her face. "I wonder if you'd mind typing this report immediately, Jean?" he said casually.

Jean nodded gratefully and fled.

One of the FBI men chuckled. "I'll give you the job, Landis, of selecting my next secretary. I like your taste."

"Would it not perhaps be a wise thing," suggested one of the Mexican detectives, "to allow her to pay another visit to the rancho? Our activities have been most discreet. She could still return there in the guise of friendship and, who knows, be successful once more."

"No!"

The men looked up surprised at Steve's violence.

"You're crazy if you men think your presence has gone unnoticed in the village," he said irritably, "or that any members of the gang in this vicinity aren't nervous as cats about it. Jean is not going near that rancho. In fact, I'm concerned over her safety now, even in the hotel."

The FBI men dropped the subject immediately. Steve felt in their tactfulness a sympathetic realization of his feeling for her. It embarassed him, but didn't change his determination to protect her from any further participation in this sordid business in which her heart had so treacherously involved her.

When they had gone, Steve sat on at his desk, his work before him for once going unnoticed. He WAS concerned about Jean. In the next few days, if the FBI men accomplished what they seemed confident they would, her part in the round-up would certainly be known by the criminals involved—if not actually broadcast by the garrulous Manzanares. And vengeance often was swift in this country. A stool-pigeon of the law was hated with virulent ruthlessness, as Manzanares himself had often told him in his rambling tales of capture. Reluctantly he reached a decision and rang Jean's buzzer.

Through the glass partition she sent him a quick smile and held up a hand in the pantomime they had worked out, meaning, "With, or without notebook?"

"Without," he signaled, and watched her approach his office door with the graceful, erect swinging walk he loved.

"Sit down." He pulled one of the conference chairs to the side of his desk for her. "I want to talk to you."

Her blue eyes fixed on his face in a swift stab of frightened questioning. "They've—found their evidence?"

"No," he reassured her. "This has nothing to do with the sabotage gang. I want to talk about you."

"Oh!" She dropped into the chair relieved, making a pretense of humorous defiance. "What's the matter with me?"

Steve's eyes searched her face gravely. "You're tired. You've been on a long straining pull for two months now, helping me get this factory into running order. I think you've earned a short vacation—some place far away. The shorter you make it, of course," he added humorously, "the better I'll like it personally. But I want you to take several weeks at least."

She smiled back wanly. "You're a pretty swell guy, Steve Landis," she told him softly. "You're giving me a chance to get away until this sabotage thing is over. To get hold of myself."

He shrugged. "Put it any way you like. It's the right thing. You've gone through more than a couple of women ought to stand. If you get back into the city for a while — see the old sights — old friends, you'll find the world will be a different place."

She sighed. "Maybe you're right." Suddenly she leaned forward to lay a crumpled telegram on his desk.

"It came this morning," she said unsteadily. "At first I put it in the wastebasket. That's why it's crumpled. But later I fished it out. I'm in pretty much of a dither, I guess. I—I can't seem to reason very well. Do you think I ought to consider it?"

Steve read the lengthy telegram through with sinking heart. The thing he had most feared had come. The wire was from her New York agent. A Hollywood motion picture producer had been interested in her picture and background in the national magazine. He was offering her the leading role in his next defense story. Would she leave for Hollywood immediately or would the agent be forced to come out there and carry her?

Steve handed the telegram back to her. "I think," he said with forced cheerfulness, "that it's the thing for you to do. Absolutely."

In the Sky

IT MAY be worthwhile to look ahead to the new month which begins during this week, on Thursday, to see what we may anticipate in the way of celestial fare during this time.

The sun reached its greatest northern declination last week, on Tuesday, the 22nd, and will now climb steadily down the sky until December 22nd, when it reaches the winter solstice. When the decreasing declination of the sun, the days gradually shorten in length.

During July the little planet Mercury is too close to the sun to be favorably placed for observation at any time.

Glorious Venus continues throughout the month to inncrease in brightness reaching the very climax of its beauty on the last day of July. It is high above the western horizon at sunset.

Mars is steadily coming closer to the earth during the month and its brightness will become noticeably greater as the days pass. By the middle of the month it will be rising about midnight.

Jupiter will be visible all month in the evening sky, moving closer constantly to the sun.

Saturn is becoming visible as a morning star in the north-east.

STARS SAY—

For Monday, June 28

Monday's astrological forecast should be a fortunate one for the surprising or sudden realization of many desired hopes and wishes that might lie in the fields of the unique, novel or exceptional. Well organized strategies supported by sound logic as well as practical constructive ability, might lead to dramatic heights of achievement. Diligence and time win out, but suppress proclivities, glamor or social prestige.

If It Is Your Birthday

Those whose birthday it is may be on the eve of a most propitious time for a surprising and dramatic attainment of their fondest hopes and wishes. This probably in the realm of the practical and substantial, although it may be enhanced by unusual, novel or unique developments. Dare to be original and independent, with proper evaluation of your product or innovation, eliminating the strictly personal or social equation, which are adversely aspected just now.

A child born this day may be original and practical, richly endowed in creative abilities of merit.

Italian Peace Feelers Overshadow Nazi Hints | Junior Partners in Axis Soured on War Situation

By CHARLES P. STEWART
Central Press Columnist

● HINTS AT A NAZI DESIRE to discuss some sort of a temporary peace with the United Nations are not seriously regarded in Washington, or, it is safe to say, in London, either. Reports of Italian feelers in a similar direction are not dismissed quite so lightly.

Due weight should be given to the distinction between references to the Germans as Nazis and to their partners as Italians rather than as Fascists.

Nazism is believed to be still pretty solid among the people of the Reich, but Fascism, from all accounts, has pretty well evaporated out of the adjoining country's atmosphere.

However, it is generally accepted that Herr Hitler now recognizes that he has a far larger contract on his hands than he did when he took the warpath, and that it is natural in him to be exceedingly wishful for a few years' breathing spell if he can make reasonably satisfactory terms, from his own and Germany's standpoint.

Compromise Sought by Hitler

A compromise, of course, is what he is angling for—not "unconditional surrender." If he could get one, while holding onto a percentage of the gains he has made hitherto, he would, to be sure, have scored a partial victory, and could afford to let further plunderings wait until later.

Well, he obviously cannot get any sort of a compromise from the Yankees or the British, either separately or jointly.

Apparently, he thought he might conclude a bargain with Russia, though, for rumor has it that he concentrated originally upon the Soviets, but only to be turned down as unceremoniously by Comrade Josef Stalin as by President Roosevelt and British Prime Minister Winston Churchill.

It is true that unconfirmed whisperings are heard to the effect that Adolf has lost most of his authority with his own government, his military chieftains having virtually deposed him and taken direct charge of operations, with him only as nominal Fuehrer. Still, even so, there are no signs that this militarists' group is yet inclined to acquiesce in anything stronger than a "negotiated peace"—a good deal short of "unconditional surrender."

Italy, unquestionably, is quite different.

There is plenty of evidence that Fascism there began petering out from the very day that Duce Mussolini lined the peninsula up with Fuehrer Hitler. The ex-Fascists have been growing clammier and clammier toward the Nazis ever since then, until today they clearly are outright hostile toward the latter. Maybe it would have been otherwise, had the Axis continued to score a lot of early victories, but at present the Italians clearly rate as around 95-and-a-fraction percent pro-Ally.

It is unmistakable that Benito is blamed for his policy. By the folk who hate Adolf, he probably is hated worse than Benito is hated by those who hate HIM, but those who DESPISE Benito despise him more heartily than Adolf is despised by HIS contingent.

Nevertheless, there is middling good testimony to the effect that Crown Prince Umberto of Italy, accompanied by several of his most influential Roman associates, arrived in Algiers the other day, offering Italian peace terms to the Allied command there.

Crown Prince To Algiers, Report

It is not fully verified, but it sounds convincing.

About the same time, Benito called his cabinet into conference to discuss the current perils of his regime. In connection with the other angle, that also is suggestive.

All this is largely speculation. Yet, we know this:

Adolf is on the anxious seat, or he would not be making overtures to Russia.

Benito must be plenty uneasy, with the Italian crown prince trying to subvert him.

Italy's secession from the Axis might not be such a military jolt to Germany, but it is safe betting that it would be a moral one.

Japan does not signify. This cannot be too often emphasized.

The United States must lick the Japs completely, and there is no use in arguing about it. While an infernal bother, all military men agree to it.

Erma Pauline Cromley, Edgar W. Hedges Marry

Church Wedding Performed At Ashville

Regal lilies, gladioli, gaillardia and baby breath in lovely arrangement decorated the altar of the Methodist church of Ashville where Miss Erma Pauline Cromley, 649 East Town street, Columbus, and Edgar William Hedges, son of Mr. and Mrs. Richard Hedges, South Bloomfield, exchanged their nuptial vows Saturday at an evening wedding. The Rev. Dwight Woodworth read the double ring service at 7:30 p. m.

Mrs. Martin Cromley of Walnut township played a program of piano music and Miss Frances McLaughlin of Detroit, Mich., sang "I Love You Truly" and "Because" preceding the ceremony.

For her wedding Miss Cromley chose a street-length frock of white marquiset, fashioned with sweetheart neckline outlined with daisies and with daisies also at the belt line. She wore a white lace dutch cap and carried a white Bible with an orchid on the cover.

Miss Eileen James of Detroit served as the bride's attendant and wore a frock of orchid crepe with a pink floral hat and pink gloves. Her corsage was of pink roses.

Charles Miller, Columbus, was best man for Mr. Hedges, and Dale Richardson and Don Waide, also Columbus, were ushers.

About 50 guests were entertained at a reception at the home of the bride's uncle and aunt, Mr. and Mrs. J. B. Cromley, Walnut township. White candles in crystal candelabra and a centerpiece of white garden flowers were used on the buffet table, attractive with its crystal service. Garden flowers in profusion made the home a lovely setting.

Mrs. Hedges, mother of the bridegroom wore a coral dress with black accessories when she joined the receiving line. She wore a corsage of white roses and baby breath.

The bride is the daughter of Sergeant Paul J. Cromley of Douglas, Wyoming, and Mrs Beatrice A. Cromley, Detroit, Mich. She is a graduate of Highland Park high school, Highland Park, Mich., and associated with the Curtiss-Wright Corporation. Mr. Hedges is a student at the school of veterinary medicine, Ohio State university, where he is a member of the Omega Tau Sigma fraternity.

Guests from distance at the wedding were Mr. and Mrs. Charles Sedin, Miss Gretchen Hedges and Dr. Robert Srigley, Columbus; Mr. and Mrs. Carl Porter of Circleville; the Misses Patsy Davison, Catherine Duthie, Ida Frances Russell, Frances McLaughlin and Eileen James of Detroit, Mich.

ASHVILLE

That picture of George Oday which several of his friends here have been asking him through the mail to send, has finally arrived and is in our possession. After being furnished with a suitable frame, it will take its place at the Toole Electric Shop among the near a hundred of the other soldier boy pictures on exhibit there. When seeing this likeness of George, you will know for sure he is being well fed. And as a matter of pleasing news, the youngster just 20 years old last Wednesday, the 23rd, has won a couple of valuable medals, to him at least, for being an outstanding marksman, beating the other boys to it. His address is: George Oday, U. S. Army, Co. C., 303rd Inft. Reg., APO 445, Camp Swift, Texas.

Ashville

And along the soldier line, Roland Cook, son of Alfred and Mrs. Cook and who has been here for the past several days on a visit from San Diego, California, returned for his post Sunday a distance of twenty five hundred miles, or near that, he told us. Drove through by auto, two other boys coming with him to near points. Has been there seven months and is a member of the coast guard artillery. His camp is only 13 miles from the Mexican border. Said he was well kept and fed.

The pea canning season at the Crites' Cannery here, is near the close, and according to the knowing ones about the place, today, Monday, may be it. The early crop was a large one and of fine quality but the late crop, the sweet variety, was not nearly so good, the excessive rain followed by the intense heat, doing much damage to the yield, the quality holding good. And off the peas to the wheat crop, which if the several farmers we have contacted within the last few days have it near right, the average acre yield in bushels will be around the 8 or 10 figure and rather less than more, a few said. Red rust and blight were the two main causes given for the crop failure. That part of the crop awaiting to be harvested by the combine method, will not be ripe enough for the reaper for a few days yet. The corn! Why mention it along with the other discouraging crop stuff? But we are already secure for next Winter's supply of new corn meal for bread. That Clint Truex, 20-acre hybrid corn across from Madison school, is high as the fence now and going strong. So we are not worrying any about corn bread. But seriously, the prospect for a corn crop is not very promising. But within the next 100 days, Good Old Weather Man can change all this bad stuff into good.

Ashville

O. C. Peters' auto keys decided it would be a lot of fun to take a sneak through that hole he had in his pocket and play that game of hide and seek he used to have good fun at when a small youngster. And they did make their get away but not for long. Mrs. Dwight Woodworth found their hiding place on a grocer's door step and restored them to their owner and to the pleasure of both.

Ashville

And this auto mention reminds us that this very day we are investing that 500 pennies we've been a long time saving, with postmaster Smith to get one of Sam's auto windshield stickers and maybe fit it on down in the right hand windshield corner where directions say it must be put or else get that five thousand and ten as a small penalty for neglecting to not attending properly to business. And the good Whippet sure will be proud of this new $5 decoration.

BIRDS SNATCH PAIR, INDIAN MARGIN IS CUT

By International News Service

The margin between the league-leading Indianapolis Indians and the second-place Milwaukee Brewers in the current American Association pennant chase was narrowed to two games today.

Indianapolis suffered a double loss at the hands of the Toledo Mud Hens yesterday by 7 to 6 and 11 to 2 scores. Milwaukee split a twin bill with Minneapolis, the Brewers pounding out a 14 to 5 win in the opener and the Millers a 11 to 3 decison in the nightcap.

Johnny Hutchings, Indianapolis mound ace, was the victim of the Mudhens in the opener at Toledo. Bill Cox, Toledo hurler, scattered eight Indian hits to coast to an easy triumph in the nightcap. Outfielder Al Zarilla, with four hits includng a homer, drove in five Toledo runs in the first game.

The Columbus Red Birds came within a half-game of the third-place Millers by recording a double win over Louisville by 6 to 2 and 8 to 7 scores.

Ken Burkhart chalked up the victory in the opener for the Birds. The second game went 10 innings and was credited to Red Barrett. A single, a sacrifice and a double by Chet Wieczorek scored the winning tally.

St. Paul scored a double win over the slipping Kansas City Blues, 8 to 7 and 4 to 0. Ed Weiland allowed the Blues only two safeties in the nightcap.

WOMEN GOLFERS MEET

CHICAGO, June 28—The women's Western Golf Association, presenting a field of nearly 100 players, set out today in its "Salute to Victory" open tournament to determine a successor to Betty Jameson of San Antonio for the 1943 championship. Miss Jameson, winner of the 1942 tournament, now is in Mexico City and was not able to come to Chicago to defend her title.

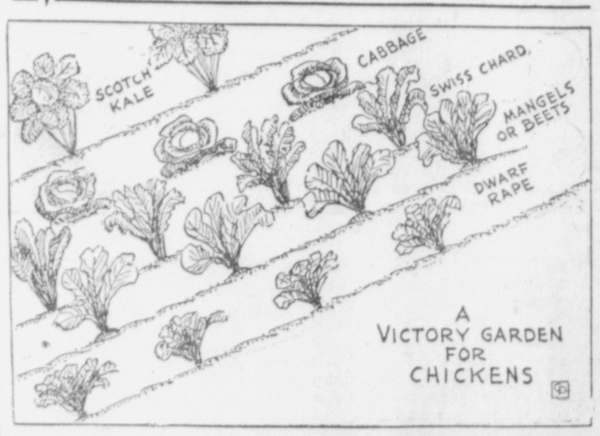
Today's VICTORY GARDEN-GRAPH



A Victory Garden for Chickens

By DEAN HALLIDAY
Released by Central Press Association

SUCCULENT green feed is relished by chickens of all ages. For young chicks raised in confinement green feed should be cut into short lengths about one-half inch long. Green feed adds variety to the ration of laying hens and stimulates their appetites. Every poultry raiser knows that heavy feed consumption is necessary to obtain big egg production.

The Victory gardener who also has a flock of chickens should plan now to grow enough green food for his chickens to carry them through the fall and winter. The varieties of vegetables for a Victory garden for chickens are shown in the accompanying Garden-Graph. The Victory garden for chickens should include plantings of Swiss chard, cabbages, Scotch kale, beets (and, or) mangel wurtzels and dwarf Essex rape.

Swiss chard and dwarf Essex rape can be cut continually and new growth will come on. If both the chard and rape are protected with some straw when early frosts come, both will continue to yield green feed for the chickens until late in the fall.

The Scotch kale will give greens until late in December, as it is not injured by frost. During the winter the hens will enjoy cabbage, red beets and mangel wurtzels. One large head of cabbage per week for 25 hens is not too much. The amount of succulent green feed given to chickens should be limited, however, so as not to interfere with their normal consumption of mash and grain.

DETROIT POLICE OFFICER WINS AAU DECATHLON

ELIZABETH, N. J., June 28—Bill Watson, Detroit heavyweight policeman and former University of Michigan track and field ace, today had regained the national A. A. U. decathlon championship.

Watson annexed the crown without competing in the 1,500 meter run, finals of the ten-event program staged at Warinaco Park stadium. He had been slated to compete in the third and last heat, but with the decathlon crown firmly within his grasp withdrew from the final run rather than aggravate a pulled tendon in his left leg.

Adding 2,263 points to the 3,731 he collected in five contests held on Saturday Watson finished with a total of 5,994, repeating his 1940 victory in this diversified and exacting competition.

Corp. Josehua Williamson of Camp Pickett, Va., was runner-up with a total of 5,808 points, 186 behind Watson. Donald G. Wanner of the University of Virginia was third with 5,614.

Cub Fans After New Team Boss

Sign In Left Field Stand Slaps Wilson, Gallagher; 38,664 There Though

By Davis J. Walsh

CHICAGO, June 28—Having two weeks before roundly booed Manager Jimmy Wilson of the Chicago Cubs off the coaching lines into the grateful sanctuary of the dugout where he since has elected to remain, Chicago's rabid anti-management bloc went one step further yesterday in its currently unsuccessful effort to unseat the vested authorities at Wrigley Field.

Not just a chance boo or a random, free-style catcall this time. Instead, something that might be called a formal (though slightly ribald) statement of attitude and position, set forth in gothic type on a banner.

Throughout the first game of the Sunday double header, and well into the second, the printed legend hung there on the wall in front of the left field bleachers for all to see—a mute excoriation of the men named, coached in terms of arresting thought doubtful taste:

"Wilson and Gallagher . . . . ."

It wasn't a nice term they used. As a matter of fact, it was one of those short, ugly five-letter words that rhyme with blink, slink, shrink, clink, sink, and gink. Also with think. But we do not believe the authors had that exactly in mind.

Later, with elaborate pains, they attempted to insert another message in the ivy just below the top of the bleacher wall, this one reading: "Oust the James Boys." But a gust of wind caught it and carried it down on the field, where it lay dankly in the rain and mud. The wind, it can be mentioned in passing, was equalled only by the facility with which the Cubs blew late-inning leads in each game.

It also can be mentioned that one James boy was in the press box during part of the opening game. But, if he noted the dastardly actions of his guests, he gave no sign, which was eminently sensible of him for several reasons.

One was that he could afford to be tolerant. The gents in the bleachers thought they were registering a beef to somebody who might want to do something about it But, with the way the Wrigley field set up works, they were merely telling James T. Gallagher that they didn't like James T. Gallagher.

The second reason was the attendance, which proved Chicago's fretful fans were so sore at the ball club that 38,664 of them didn't stay away yesterday. You can't fire a man by writing him into the azure ink on the company's books.

BREWS LOSE STAR

MILWAUKEE, June 28—The Milwaukee Brewers suffered a severe jolt today, the loss of Eddie Hanyzewski, a right-handed hurler. Hanyzewski was recalled by the Chicago Cubs a few hours after they recalled Paul Erickson, another right-handed hurling star of the Brewers.

COLLEGIANS MEET

CHICAGO, June 28—A field of 78 contestants from 22 colleges and universities prepared to tee off today in guest of team and individual titles in the 46th national cellegiate championship golf tournament at Olympia Fields country club. The middle west, represented by Michigan, Northwestern, Ohio State Wisconsin, Minnesota, Michigan State and Notre Dame, was expected to make a strong bid for both titles.

Major Leagues To Aid Various Service Funds With Day's Proceeds

By Lawton Carver

NEW YORK, June 28 — Major League baseball will make its first big splash of the year toward the war effort on Wednesday when proceeds from all games in both circuits will go to various funds—and in each instance the magnates are bearing down to bring the customers out in droves. Either double headers or night games are scheduled, and some extra added attractions have been included on a number of programs to lift them out of the commonplace drabness of just so many mid-week engagements.

Then on July 13, at Philadelphia, the artistic high spot of the season—excepting only the World Series—will be run, the same being the annual all-star game. This also will be for the benefit of the war effort, as it was last year and will continue to be for the duration.

As usual, Major League championship competition will be interrupted for three days to permit the staging of the all-star encounter, a sort of trick promotion when it was started in 1933 and now an established institution in sports, an event additionally important as a financial aid to the war effort on the home front.

Hubbard May Hurl

There will be some strange names on the rosters of the clubs representing the two Major Leagues this time, but along with the newcomers will be a sprinkling of old-timers. It wouldn't be at all surprising, for instance, to see Carl Hubbell on the National League mound for a brief stint again.

If he makes it, he will stand alone as the only hurler to get into the classic six times. He and Lefty Gomez are tied now at five appearances—and, of course, Lefty won't ever make it again.

Hubbell would still be seeking his first victory in the classic if his recent record is to be regarded as sufficient reason for putting him in the National League roster for 1943. He is credited with having pitched 9 2/3 innings in five previous years, but has never won or lost a game.

Of the 11 strikeouts which he has imposed on the American League hitters, five of them stand as an all-time all-star record. It was back in 1933 that he buzzed that screw-ball in there to set down five of the greatest in a row. Ruth, Gehrig, Simmons, Cronin and Foxx, wasn't it?

He now has a slider, proving that as the years go on he will always have something new to show the American Leaguers, who once spurned him as just another southpaw with a freak delivery—the screw ball which over the years has given him ranking with the best of pitchers.

Rejected by Cobb

Wasn't it Ty Cobb who took one look at him back there in the 20's and told him he had better return to the minors as there was no place for him on the Detroit club? The supposition was that he would pitch his arm off before that screw ball would get him anywhere.

Here it is 1943 and he is still at least a candidate for the all-star game and if he gets in it for the usual two or three innings allotted each hurler he can be relied upon to do about as well as any of them. He will show them a little of this and a little of that and add something to the game in this year of talent shortage.

Aside from all else, between Wednesday's schedule of doubleheaders and night games and the all-star game baseball will be doing its bit again, this to be followed up by further contributions later in the season.

DAIRY, CHURCH CREWS WINNERS IN BALL LEAGUE

Two interesting softball games were played Sunday afternoon in sweltering heat at the Ted Lewis recreation center, the Blue Ribbon Dairy crew winning a 2 to 1 contest from the Junior Chamber of Commerce, and the Methodist church team gaining a 5 to 2 verdict over Williamsport.

Both games were well played despite the stifling heat.

Jim Wells pitched against Ken Dillman in the dairy-Jaycee encounter, while Pug Fowler edged George in the Methodist-Williamsport contest.

BILL TALBERT WINNER

CINCINNATI, June 28—Bill Talbert, Cincinnati's fifth national ranking tennis player, today added the tri-state tennis title to his accomplishments. Talbert upset Seymour Greenberg, of Chicago, national clay court champion, in straight sets in the finals, 6-1, 6-2, 6-3. Talbert demonstrated complete mastery over the Chicago youth who beat him a week ago for the national clay courts title in Detroit.

CARD, DODGER OUTFITS GRAB DOUBLE WINS

Neither National Leader Able To Gain Ground Over Opponent

REDLEGS MOVING UP

Cincinnati Takes Brace Of Contests From Pirate Nine

NEW YORK, June 28 — The Major League baseball clubs today reached a two-day respite in the schedule preparatory to the western National League clubs opening an eastern swing and the eastern American Leaguers going west.

This means that the St. Louis Cardinals will try to maintain their half game lead over the Brooklyn Dodgers on the road while the latter have the advantage of the home park and the New York Yankees and Washington Senators will swing through the west with the former in front by two games as they start out.

The Cards' leadership thus is quite definitely threatened and on their return to their own sector sometime hence they probably will be back in second place. The Yankee-Senator feud gives them an equal chance. The better road club will compile the better record and if that happens to be Washington, then the Yanks can be second place themselves by the time they get back to the stadium here.

Yesterday's double-header competition brought no changes in the standings among the leaders, inasmuch as the Cards twice slapped the Cubs down and the Dodgers followed suit against the Phillies to maintain that particular dog-fight. In the American, both the Yankees and the Senators split their twin bills.

39,000 At Chicago

A crowd of 39,000, biggest of the year at Chicago, saw the Cards win by 3 to 2 and 4 to 3, with Howard Kirst being credited for both wins. He went in twice as relief pitcher.

Tre Dodgers won by 9 to 4 and 6 to 0 from the Phillies, Rube Melton turning in a three-hitter in the nightcap shutout.

In the other National League games, the New York Giants lost to the Boston Braves, 10 to 1, then got an even split behind Johnny Wittig in the nightcap, 6 to 0, and the Cincinnati Reds downed the Pittsburgh Pirates twice, 6 to 3 and 5 to 1, Cincinnati climbing a notch in the standings.

Yankees Dwindle

The Yankees won from the Red Sox in the American league by 3 to 2 behind Joe Gordon's home run and double, then dropped the nightcap, 4 to 3, in 12 innings by virtue of Bobby Doerr's home run that tied it up and his single that won the game.

The senators obliging split with the Philadelphia Athletics by taking the opener, 9 to 0, then losing the second game, 5 to 4.

The St. Louis Browns came up out of the American league cellar with a 6 to 3 win over the Detroit Tigers, then dropped back again by losing 9 to 5. Rudy York hit a brace of homers for the Tigers in the victory.

The Cleveland Indians split a pair of tight ones with the Chicago White Sox, the Indians taking the opener 2 to 1 and dropping the afterpiece, 2 to 0, Ed Smith hurling the shutout.

JINX FALKENBURG

Jinx Falkenburg, who catapulted her career from modelling to prominence on the tennis court to film stardom, will turn her talents to radio next Wednesday night when she will be Jack Carson's guest on his CBS comedy show. The glamorous Jinx was born in Chile so Jack will give his program a good-will, South American motif for the evening. Elizabeth Patterson will chaperone them in the role of Jack's Aunt Sally, and Johnny Richards and his gadget-rhythm orchestra will play another "symphony" built around a household utensil.

ALEC TEMPLETON DUET

Piano Satirist Alec Templeton has given three quick piano lessons to Ken Roberts, his Blue Network announcer, but considers it enough to let him make his radio debut as a pianist next Wednesday night on the show. Alec will play a duet with Ken—and it's an original trick composition titled "The Five Fingers Exercise Waltz." "It's a swap arrangement," says Alec. "Ken's promised to let me in on the announcing racket."

INSIDE STUFF

During rehearsals of "Kiss The Boys Goodbye" on the CBS Playhouse last Friday, Mary Martin repeatedly fumbled one line. What she did was to keep adding a sueech of her own. Charles Martin could not understand her sudden excursion into playwrighting but she apologized and explained. Seems she wasn't making up the speech at all but was subconsciously quoting the dialogue used in that scene of the movie version, in which she had also starred. The change in dialogue, originally made for radio condensation purposes, was eliminated and the movie version went back in. "There's no use arguing with the subconscious psyche," he argued.

OPERA STAR AIDED

Radio has done much to help Metropolitan Opera stars. NBC's Mary Margaret McBride cited Everett Marshall, star of "The Student Prince" as an example. Marshall, who was a guest on her program, came to the Metropolitan from Italy in 1927 and sang there for four years. "But there were not the radio guest shots at big money to augment the opera salaries then," said Marshall, "so I had to quit the Met to go into the more lucrative Broadway and Hollywood fields. Today it would be a different story.

BERNT BALCHEN STORY

The simple philosophy of an American army flyer — Colonel Bernt Balchen—who risked almost certain death four successive times to rescue nine American service men, one of whom was seriously injured, from an ice-capped mountain peak in Greenland, will be the story behind John Nesbitt's salute to Independence Day during the John Charles Thomas program Sunday, July 4, 2:30 p. m. over NBC.

Piloting a PB-Y Flying Boat, loaned him by the U. S. Navy, the same man who flew Byrd over the North Pole in times of peace, pancaked his borrowed plane to a landing in a Greenland mountain pocket to pick up, by twos, and once three at a time, the nine occupants of an American Flying Fortress which had crashed in the fog.

What Col. Balchen said, when the survivors were safe and acquaintances asked how he dared brave death four times in the rescue, will be revealed by Nesbitt during the broadcast. It is a philosophy that gives meaning to Independence Day, over all the earth.

John Charles Thomas, with Victor Young and the orchestra and the Ken Darby chorus, will provide a program of American musical entertainment to help celebrate the Fourth. The great baritone's opening song will be "Sing Awhile Longer."

Anne Nichols, author of Abie's Irish Rose, and her collaborator, Rip Van Ronkel, have been asked by the Radio Division of the OWI to pen two special Abie scripts to be transcribed and sent overseas to the armed forces. Works like this: OWI decided what plot the Abie characters should be involved in—and the authors write the skit to fit the characters.

Directors Called To Consider County's Fall Festival.

PUMPKIN SHOW BOARD MAY ADD NEW FEATURES

Slight Expansion Seen For War Time Program Staged Last Year

FULL EVENT ABANDONED

Local Exhibits To Come Within Dates Set By State Department

Decision on the extent to which directors of the Pickaway County Agricultural Society will plan their 1943 Pumpkin Show celebration will be made Tuesday evening. Directors of the society will meet in city council chamber for a general discussion of the Fall festival.

Mack D. Parrett, Pumpkin Show society secretary, sent notices Monday to all members of the board urging that they be present for Tuesday's meeting which starts at 8 o'clock.

The Ohio department of agriculture has granted the Pickaway County Agricultural Society four days to conduct whatever kind of show they deem advisable so long as it follows lines approved by the state department. Last year a highly successful two day stock show was conducted in East Franklin street for 4-H club and vocational agriculture boys and girls.

Show For Youths

Plans are already under way for a similar show this Fall, but it is also believed possible that several other of the Pumpkin Show features will be added this year. Secretary Parrett and Treasurer Robert G. Colville are hopeful that other members of the board will put their approval on expanding the celebration somewhat. They do not believe that the Pumpkin Show as it was known before the war can be conducted, but they would like to see some features added to the Junior Fair.

At a meeting held some months ago it was decided that the Junior Fair would be staged in a manner as complete as possible, members of the board frowning on trying to expand the festival beyond the Junior Fair idea. Whether they will favor adding several features to the Junior Fair will be decided at the Tuesday night meeting.

Dates set aside for the Pickaway County event by the state department are October 20-23, inclusive, these dates being the week following the Fairfield county fair at Lancaster, which was held last year and will probably be conducted again this Fall.

MAJ. J. G. CURL WINS DSO FOR BLOW AT AXIS

Major James G. Curl, Jr., 25-year-old son of James Curl of Columbus and grandson of Mrs. Mack Parrett, West Franklin street, has been awarded the Distinguished Service Order by the United States government for leading the greatest single air assault against the axis in North Africa.

Curl, who won promotion because of his fighting in the North African theatre, was a leader of a fighter plane squadron which helped knock down 75 Junkers 52s and other big German transports in a blow which came near the end of the North African struggle.

The youth's heroic action came on April 18 when he ignored a heavy protective covering provided the big Nazi planes, leading his squadron of Warhawks to the attack. Only two years ago Major Curl was an aviation cadet. He was a captain at the time of the big sky battle.

Major Curl was awarded the DSO by British Air Marshal Sir William Sholto Douglas in Cairo, the English officer saying:

"There is no doubt that Major Curl, by his brilliant leadership, was mainly responsible for an air attack which was unsurpassed for its success in the destruction of enemy aircraft."

The German planes attacked by Major Curl's Warhawks were leaving Tunisia, loaded with crack Nazi troops who were being evacuated. Hundreds of them lost their lives as the planes fell.

DR. R. O. M'CLURE TAKES POST AT OHIO NORTHERN

Dr. Robert O. McClure of Lima, a leader in the Ohio Methodist church for many years, has been appointed acting president of Ohio Northern university, Ada. Dr. McClure, who formerly served as superintendent of the Chillicothe district of the Methodist church during which time he supervised the Circleville Methodist church, will assume his new duties July 1.

Dr. McClure has been superintendent of the Lima district of the church for the last several years. He succeeds Dr. Robert Williams, resigned.

The new university head is a graduate of Asbury college, Ky., served as a chaplain in World War 1 with the AEF, and has held pastorates at Chillicothe, Toledo and Newark. He became a member of the Ohio Methodist conference in 1930.

HOCKING CITIZENS MAY PAY TAX IN LAURELVILLE

Hocking countians who live in Laurelville community will be given an opportunity to pay their first half of 1942 taxes at the Salt Creek Valley bank, Laurelville, when Robert N. White, Hocking county treasurer, sets up an office there July 27 and 28.

All property owners of the district are asked to take their old tax receipts to facilitate collections.

THREE WOMEN JAILED

Three women, all charged with disorderly conduct, were held in jail during the week end to await hearings before Mayor Ben H. Gordon. Included in the trio were Nellie Dills, 22, 1170 State street, Columbus; Sarah Floyd, 43, Tarlton, and Loretta Coey, 29, Ashville. All were taken into custody after causing disturbances in Circleville late Saturday night and early Sunday.

Termites, commonly called white or ghost ants, which bore into wood house foundations, are not really ants, but neuroteroid insects.

BOYS INVITED TO BE GUESTS AT LOCKBOURNE

Boys of Circleville and Pickaway county who have reached their seventeenth birthdays, but who are not yet 18, have been invited to be guests of the Lockbourne army air base next Sunday, July 4, for a complete tour of the big Flying Fortress station.

Youths less than 17 or more than 17 will not be admitted to the grounds, but boys of the age invited will be shown a big time during the entire afternoon.

Boys visiting Lockbourne will be taken on an inspection tour of the big B-17s which are causing so much havoc in axis held lands. The youths will be taken inside the fortresses and operation of the big craft will be explained. This is considered a rare treat, since the interior of the Fortresses has been well guarded from public eye.

The visitors will also view mass flying formations and pass through the ground school. They will be permitted to talk to instructors, officers and men who have seen service on the various fighting fronts.

The program begins at 1 p. m. and will close at 5 when a full dress retreat will be conducted. This event alone should be sufficient to attract hundreds of 17-year-olds from all parts of the state to the base.

A similar inspection tour is being planned at each big air base in the nation on Independence Day.

CONGRESS AND THE HEAT

The current Congress, especially on the House side, is getting the reputation of being "heat-crazed." Here are illustrations of recent legislation responsible for winning this name.

1. In the Office of Civilian Defense appropriation bill, the House killed an item for the War Services Branch, which handles the recruiting of volunteer workers for the Army, Navy, Red Cross and all war agencies. In other words, when volunteers want to contribute their services, the OCD War Services Branch acts as a clearing house to see that they reach the war agency which needs them most and for which they are best qualified.

If the House vote is not remedied by the Senate, the Army, Navy, Red Cross and all the other agencies will now have to set up their own voluntee units, thus duplicating the expense instead of saving money.

2. Elimination of all enforcement appropriations for the Office of Price Administration. This means that the OPA is supposed to fix prices with no means of enforcing them, which is like giving a traffic cop a whistle with no power to arrest.

3. The cock-eyed vote on eliminating the Domestic Branch of the Office of War Information. Behind this was a combination of Republicans and reactionary Southern Democrats, largely influenced by the Negro question.

Out of 50 Democrats voting against OWI, all but three were from the South. What roused them was a pamphlet "Negroes in the War" issued by OWI. But what Southern Congressmen did not know was that Navy Intelligence and the FBI had reported a dangerous 5th Column campaign inspired by Japanese to persuade the Negro that this was a white man's war.

So the Armed services wanted the Office of War Information to issue a booklet showing how Negroes were doing important things to help win the war and were an actual part of it.

In return, Southern Democrats voted to abolish the OWI Domestic Branch.

Note: Though all but five Republicans voted against OWI's Domestic Branch, it was headed by staunch Republican Gardner Cowles, Jr., of Iowa, publicity adviser to Willkie; while its new chief is Republican Palmer Hoyt of the Portland Oregonian, staunch supporter of vice-presidential candidate Senator McNary.

PIPE LINERS PREPARE FOR RIVER CROSSING

One of the most interesting phases of construction of the big emergency pipeline from Longview, Texas, to Bayone, N. J., will get under way in Pickaway county during the next two weeks when contractors put the big line under the Scioto river and under Darby and Deer creeks.

The first of two lines to be built across Pickaway county is complete now except for the stream crossings.

Contractors are planning to set up headquarters in Circleville from which the stream crossings operations will be carried on.

Laborers are being sought now to handle preliminary work, including clearing river and creek banks in the vicinity of the crossings.

A crane has already been moved into Pickaway county, and other equipment is enroute here.

All the pipe through which oil will be carried to the east coast for private and military use will be put under the river and stream beds in an operation that requires expert handling.

One of the biggest engineering feats in modern history, was completed when the pipeline contractor put his line under the Mississippi.

Construction of the second pipe line through Pickaway county will get under way after the first one is completed. It is being predicted by pipe line men that oil will be moving through Pickaway county by late August.

AIDS SOUGHT TO HELP PROCESS RATION BOOKS

Volunteers to help the Pickaway county War Price and Rationing office process "A" gasoline ration books during the next three weeks are being sought by Miss Rose Good, who is in charge of obtaining volunteer workers.

Miss Good pointed out Monday that 6,000 "A" books must be processed and returned to motorists before July 21 so they can continue to drive their cars.

Persons interested in helping the ration office should telephone Miss Good at 38 or call the ration office, 39. The office remains open Thursday evening, some persons who could not assist during the day being asked to help that evening.

Motorists who are filing applications for new "A" books are reminded by rationers that their tire inspection records must be sent to the rationing office with the back of their present "A" books in addition to the application form which must be filled out completely.

WAAC OFFICER TO VISIT MOUNT STERLING AREA

Eligible women in the Mount Sterling district will be given an opportunity to join the Women's Army Auxiliary Corps Tuesday when Lieutenant Dorothy J. Edwards Price of London, who has been training at Daytona Beach, Fla., appears in the village.

Lt. Price will provide information for women between 21 and 45 concerning the WAAC organization.

WAAC recruiting has not been so successful, army officials point out, many hundreds more women being required to fill the ranks.

PRESBYTERIANS NAME BOARD TO SELECT PASTOR

Presbyterian church moved nearer selection of a new minister Sunday to replace the Rev. Robert T. Kelsey when a ministerial committee was announced by the Rev. Charles Reeder, guest pastor at Sunday's service. The ministerial committee was chosen by the Session of the church.

In the pulpit supply group are George D. McDowell and Theodore Steele, elders; J. O. Eagleson and Lemuel B. Weldon, trustees; Miss Florence Dunton, of the Ladies' Aid society; Thomas Armstrong of the Sunday school, and Miss Betty Moeller of the church's youth group.

The committee will pass on applications of candidates for the pulpit made vacant when the Rev. Mr. Kelsey resigned to become pastor at Niles, O. Dates will be arranged for appearances before the local congregation of candidates for the pastorate.

Mr. Dreisbach attended the conference with Mrs. Dreisbach, who is district auxiliary president, and E. C. Ebert, also a post Howard Hall past commander.

The national convention will be held in Omaha, Nebraska, in September. Mr. Dreisbach will not attend unless one of the district's delegates is unable to do so.

About 60 Legionnaires were present for the meeting during which business matters took most of the time. The Fall session will be held in Greenfield.

E. E. Keifer, department service officer, spoke on assistance for service men of World War II and Ray Williams, deputy commander of the department, spoke concerning membership, urging posts to take more interest in men returning from World War II after receiving discharges.

He has just completed his first year in the college of engineering at Ohio State university.

• FROZEN FOOD LOCKER SERVICE

Would you like to serve fresh corn, string beans and peaches from your own garden and orchard for Christmas dinner? FROZEN FOOD LOCKER SERVICE will make this possible and practical. The same quick-freezing and zero storage enable you to have fresh meats, poultry and fish with convenience and economy.

Plans are under way for the immediate construction of a complete locker service plant in Circleville.

Present government regulations, however, require that such service be in demand by the community before priorities for construction materials and equipment will be issued.

Lockers must be contracted for and the rental fee deposited in a local bank to be held in escrow until the plant is in operation. In the event priorities are not allowed all deposits will be returned in full.

Drawer lockers, the more convenient type, rent for $15 per year while the door type with approximately the same capacity rent for $12 per year.

The project is being sponsored and will be constructed by STANSBURY-STOUT CORP., General Contractors, who plan to have the plant in operation by mid-September of this year.

Rentals will be accepted by the above firm for the next 10 days after which application will be made to the War Production Board for permission to proceed with the construction. We urge you to return the contract form mailed recently, at your earliest possible convenience.
